Greeley Doctor of Chiropractic Elected President of the Colorado Chiropractic Association

Denver, Colorado - Dr. Michael J. Springfield, a doctor of chiropractic practicing in Greeley, Colorado, was recently elected president of the Colorado Chiropractic Association (CCA). He was nominated and chosen by his fellow doctors practicing in Colorado.

Dr. Springfield is a 1999 graduate of Logan Chiropractic College in Chesterfield, Missouri and earned a diplomate in acupuncture from the National Certification Commission of Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine (NCCAOM). In addition to maintaining a chiropractic/acupuncture practice in Greeley, Colorado, Dr. Springfield serves as professor of acupuncture at Aims Community College and as adviser for the acupuncture examination for the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

The Colorado Chiropractic Association is the professional association of choice for Colorado doctors of chiropractic. Currently, the CCA represents the 1,600 doctors of chiropractic practicing in Colorado today. For more information on chiropractic or a referral to a doctor of chiropractic who fits your needs, please visit needchiro.com OR contact the CCA at (303) 755-9011 or (800) 829-0339.
